Tulip Poplars Being Attacked By Black Beetles

A tiny, black snout-beetle known as a leaf miner, is now attacking tulip poplars and magnolias in Kentucky, says Dr. R. L. Miller, U. K. Cooperative Extension Service entomologist.

The beetles, which eat holes in the leaves, hatched out from host tulip poplar trees. They will attack tulip poplars but like magnolias as well, Dr. Miller said. The tiny beetles are strong flyers.

Use the 50 percent strength wettable powder of Dieldrin at one tablespoonful per gallon of water; or the wettable powder of Malathion at two tablespoonfuls per gallon of water, or one tablespoonful of the Malathion concentrate in a gallon of water. Spray foliage to runoff stage.

The beetles will attack magnolias during June. Follow label directions and safety precautions carefully, as these two materials are toxic to humans.

James Collins In Army Exercise

Chief Radarman James E. Collins, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brady Collins of 54 Blue Grass, Hazard, is participating in an international exercise called Operation Fairgame III in the central Mediterranean and on the island of Corsica May 16-25, while serving aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Springfield.

Thirty-four American and 26 French ships are participating in the exercise, along with group troops from the two countries. United States Marines of the 2nd Battalion, 8th Marine Regiment are taking part, along with the French forces. France is providing troops from the Group Fusiliers Des Marines Commando, Group Tactical Assault and French Foreign Legion.

Fairgame III is one of a series of combined French and U. S. naval exercises which have been conducted annually to provide mutual tactical training and familiarization in offensive and defensive air, amphibious, submarine and anti-submarine operations for French and U. S. forces.

Fairgame III is being conducted in three phases. The initial phase is designed to exercise the U. S. and French carrier task forces in mutual combined support operations. They are opposed by French air forces and French and U. S. submarines.

The second phase will consist of a combined French and U. S. amphibious assault landing at Santa Manza, Corsica. A fast assault will be opposed by French and U. S. submarines and land forces, and by French air forces.

The final phase of Fairgame III will consist of basic individual ship training exercises in which French and U. S. observers will be exchanged for orientation and indoctrination.

ARH Physician Resigns To Accept Position In 2 New York Hospitals

One of the best-known physicians in the Appalachian Regional Hospitals system has resigned to teach and take staff positions in two New York hospitals.

He is William H. Potter, M.D., who has been chief of surgery at four ARH hospitals and a member of the courtesy medical staff of the six other non-profit community hospitals operated by Appalachian Regional Hospitals.

On July 1 he will become director of surgical services of Morrisania City Hospital, New York, a member of the surgical staff of Montefiore Hospital, The Bronx, and a professor on the faculty of Albert Einstein Medical College.

Dr. Potter became chief of surgical service at the Harlan ARH hospital when that hospital was opened in November, 1955. For the past 9½ years he has continued to head the surgery team and has directed the hospital's surgical residency program.

He was chief of surgery at the Middlesboro and Hazard hospitals in recent years, and has served as acting chief at the McDowell hospital since October, 1963. He has been on the courtesy staffs at the ARH hospitals in Beckley and Man, W. Va., Pikeville, South Williamson and Whitesburg, Ky., and Wise, Va., since they were opened in the mid-1950's.

Dr. Potter's unorthodox transportation became his trademark. He flew a helicopter between ARH hospitals because, he said, flying saved time and gave him a feeling of safety he didn't find on mountain roads. He once considered building helicopters atop each hospital at his own expense.

His only accident occurred on the ground. As he landed on a hospital parking lot, the rotor blade of the chopper scraped the top of a truck. The result was a $2,200 blade repair bill.

Later he abandoned his helicopter. He found that too often weather wouldn't permit flying and the cost was too high.

Dr. Potter is one of the original members and vice-president of the Daniel Boone Clinic, a group practice association of doctors originally on the staff of the hospitals when they were operated by the Miners Memorial Hospital Association. When the hospitals were sold to Appalachian Regional Hospitals, several physicians remained in the area to form the Clinic. The Clinic has 35 physicians in its offices in four Eastern Kentucky communities — Harlan, McDowell, Middlesboro and Whitesburg.

Dr. Potter, 50, was born in Buffalo, New York. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Yale College and his doctor of medicine degree from Harvard Medical School.

Boat & Ski Club Directors Meet

The Buckhorn Boat and Ski Club Board of Directors met June 10 and the Commodore Clyman Shelton reported that the Club had completed the shelter on the Boat Club lot at Buckhorn, Kentucky, located below the Buckhorn State Park Lodge.

Other good news for the boat club members was that a permit had been granted from the government for a construction of a loading and unloading pier at the lot. Plans for the pier had been submitted and the pier will be constructed from redwood and styrofoam.

Plans were made to hold a dance in the near future. Also the members plan to water ski and award prizes July 4 and 5. Registration forms will be mailed out in the near future to the members and detailed information.

When the Board meeting adjourned, Mr. Ernest Sparkman took the members who had not seen the TV station on a tour of the offices and each one was allowed to see how he or she looked on TV. We all looked fat and healthy, including our Commodore Clyman Shelton.

Other present were Mrs. John L. Ray, Mrs. Don Duff, E. E. Engle, Jr. and George Anderson.

Butch Beard Changes Mind Again Signs At UL

The big stir that was created last week when Butch Beard announced he wanted to go to the University of Kentucky has grown to larger measures.

Beard announced just this status with UL is cleared. Louisville has a letter of intent with Beard's signature on it, but no grant-in-aid has been signed by the widely sought youngster.

Beard, the standout at Breckinridge County High, is regarded as the best prep eager in the commonwealth at the present time.

UL president Phillip Davis has asked the Missouri Valley Conference, of which Louisville is a member, to look into his school's recruiting policies as far as Beard is concerned.

Kentucky adopted a hands-off policy as far as the 6-3 all-you can bet that scouts from stater is concerned until his UK and UL will keep the young

A national championship would be knocking at the door of UL if Beard signs there and teams up with gigantic Westley Unseld and some other prize catches that Peck Hickman and John Dromo have come up with.

Vicco Gets $5,000 Grant To Plan Water System

The City of Vicco passed another milestone along its journey toward modernization yesterday when the Housing and Home Finance Agency approved a grant of $5,000 to finance planning for a municipal water system.

Once the plans are approved, the mine is "virtually full of water," according to Adams. He said that over 5 million tons of coal have been removed from the mine and that there may be as much as a billion gallons of water inside.

A recent house-to-house survey of Vicco and surrounding communities resulted in 414 households indicating that they would use the new water system, as well as natural gas and sewage systems if they were to be installed.

Perkins' telegram mentioned that some 100 families were to be relocated from the nearby Carr Fork Reservoir area and that these were potential future residents of the Carr Fork Dam.

Adams said that presently, no one in the Vicco area is using treated water. The water for household use is obtained from private wells and from pools inside some mines nearby.

The new public water system would use as its source the old Carr Fork Mine on Stacy Branch in Vicco, according to present plans.

The Army Corps of Engineers has reportedly begun a successful clean-up program that included removal of at least one unsightly building as well as roadside litter.

Blackey Will Be The Location For Full-Length Motion Picture

Blackey in Letcher County has been selected as the location for a full-length movie.

HBW Productions will shoot the film, tentatively titled, "The Hole in the Bag," later this summer in and around Blackey. Mr. Herman, spokesman for the group, announced Tuesday. "Unlike controversial documentary treatments of Appalachian regions," Mr. Herman said, "this film is not social in orientation. It is not an editorial comment," he said, "it is above all a drama."

He went on to emphasize that the area (Letcher, Perry, Pike and Knott Counties) will be treated "honestly and objectively and with a wide-angle lens."

The movie relates the story of a sensitive girl with a fatal disease and a successful young writer who has come to renounce writing. It traces their effect upon one another.

The film will be directed by Mr. Herman, who earlier this year opened a woodcraft center in Blackey that subsequently received a grant from the Council of Southern Mountains. Originally from New York, Mr. Herman has studied art in the United States and in Rome.

Bulan Man Injured In Mine Accident Youth Corps Officials Review Project Plans

A mine accident in Knott County yesterday has sent a Bulan man to Mount Mary Hospital with serious injuries. App Stidham, 51, was injured around 11:10 yesterday morning at the B&M Coal Company Mine on Clear Creek in Knott County.

According to the State Department of Mines and Minerals, Stidham was caught between a piece of machinery and the roof of the mine. The mine is owned by Luke Walters of Bulan.

According to Everett Bartlett, State Mine Inspector, there have been four fatal mining accidents in the area served by the local office this year.

The Hazard office of the State Department of Mines and Minerals serves all of Leslie, Perry and Wolfe Counties and part of Breathitt, Knott and Letcher Counties.

Garland Wells To Head HARC

Garland Wells, local attorney, is the new president of the Hazard Association for Retarded Children. Wells was elected to the post at the association's meeting last Monday night at the Perry County Health Center.

Other officers are Stanley Slope, vice-president and Mrs. Homer Osborne, secretary-treasurer.

According to Wells the purpose of the group is to help in every aspect the retarded in the county. He pointed out that the Leatherwood area has its own retardation program and that one has been very successful.

A total of 15 directors were named at the meeting: Willie Dawahare, Ed Dawhare, Vernon Cooper, Bill Biggs, Estill McIntyre, Roy Eversole, Mrs. Gene Combs, Rev. John Neagle, Mrs. Mary Wright, M. K. Eblen, Mrs. Charles Rutledge, Mrs. B. J. Combs, Virgil Walton Napier, Mrs. James Begley and Mrs. E. Tipton Carroll.

The association will incorporate as soon as possible, according to Wells, and then will look into the possibilities of obtaining funds under the Economic Opportunity Act.

The next meeting of the group will be Monday, July 26 at the Health Center.

Tommy Lykins Bound For AF Academy

Tommy Lykins, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee F. Lykins Jr. of Walkertown, will leave Hazard Sunday to enroll in the United States Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Young Lykins, a 1965 graduate of Hazard High School, will be one of 1,000 freshman cadets at the Academy, where the total enrollment will be over 2,500 this year.

Tommy Lykins

Tommy has had to work 4,200 algebra problems assigned by the Air Force Academy in preparation for his enrollment.

Tommy will attend the Academy by virtue of a principal Congressional appointment from 7th District Representative Carl D. Perkins and an outstanding performance on a series of college-board and physical aptitude tests.

Upon reporting for duty next Monday, Tommy will begin a rugged seven weeks of basic military training which he must complete successfully in order to receive the coveted title of Cadet and thereby insure his position at the Academy.

After four years at the Academy, cadets are graduated with bachelor degrees, a Second Lieutenant's commission in the United States Air Force, and a five year military obligation.

A one-year flight training course is optional, but Tommy says he plans to take it. He is considering an Air Force career.

Vacation time from the Academy is limited for cadets, but the summers are not all work and no play. Next summer Tommy and his fellow cadets will tour the United States, visiting the various Air Force installations, and go on a similar tour overseas the following summer.

Though he does not report for duty until June 28, the Academy has already put Tommy to work, doing some 4,200 algebra problems in preparation for rigorous classroom work next year.

It isn't as if he was deficient in his studies, however. Tommy was an A student at Hazard High School while participating in extra-curricular activities like the Science Club, Demolay, Pep Band and the High School Band four years.

He graduated from Hazard High with 22 credits. His essay, "How Better Roads Would Benefit My Community," won first place in the Better Roads Council's District Essay Contest.

Tommy will fly from Louisville to Denver Sunday. Colorado Springs is south of Denver, in the Rocky Mountains near Pike's Peak.

Delegation Asks Governor To Call Special Strip Mine Session

Spokesmen for the Appalachian Group To Save Land and People presented Governor Breathitt a letter Tuesday asking him to call a special session of the General Assembly to draft legislation prohibiting strip mining on mountain land that cannot be restored "to its original and natural condition."

The Governor did not say he wouldn't call such a special session, but he indicated that his administration wanted to do an objective study to see what the results of the 1964 strip mine controls laws are before he convenes Kentucky's law makers.

The Group went to Frankfort in a 40 car motorcade that formed at 9 a.m. Tuesday at Homeplace on Highway 15 North of Dwarf.

The first elements of the motorcade began arriving about 1:15 p.m., and by two o'clock, the hour of the appointment with the Governor, they assembled on a portico of the Capitol Building where reporters and photographers greeted them.

Only 10 of their number went into the Governor's office. The rest waited outside or in the halls of the Capitol until word came that the Governor would speak to the whole Group in the Health Department auditorium several blocks away.

Several of the mountaineers carried placards protesting strip mining and ridiculing reclamation efforts.

"Must We Be Buried Alive?" asked one placard. Others said "Elderberry Bushes! How Stupid Can People Get?" and "Court of Appeals Says We Have No Property Rights."

After the Governor's remarks before the entire delegation of Leslie, Letcher, Perry and Knott citizens in which he promised the fact-finding study of the strip mine law, Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick and members of his staff fielded questions from the audience.

He said his Department was looking for violations of the 1964 law and asked the crowd for specific complaints.

"We're sympathetic with your cause," Matlick said, but added that his office had to work within the limits of the existing law.

Crying The Blues

Mountain residents who went to Frankfort Tuesday to protest strip mining were anything but shy as they attempted to bring their grievances to the attention of the Governor and the general public. Signs such as these were numerous. Some, like the lady at left in the picture, were even willing to feign tears to dramatize the way they feel about strip mining.

of strip mining, suggested that Matlick's Department refrain from issuing stripping permit on steep mountain slopes that cannot be reclaimed.

Deputy Commissioner of Natural Resources Robert Montgomery, who spent a day last week looking into complaints of Clear Creek residents in Knott County, said that he saw no violations of the strip mine law on his tour.

The meeting broke up shortly after 5 p.m. and the motorcade began the trip back into the hills, except for a few members who stopped off in Lexington to attend the strip mine symposium sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources.

After a day of discussion that featured talks by the Board Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, Aubrey J. Wagner and William Sturgill, Hazard, Chairman of the Board of the Kentucky Coal Association, Governor Breathitt last night said he would lead an effort to outlaw strip mining if erosion and flooding and pollution are the inevitable consequences of that kind of mining.

"Unless we can effect honest reclamation, an outraged public will demand prohibition of the industry," the Governor said, noting that doing away with the industry would have serious consequences in Eastern Kentucky and that "we must make sure that we have explored every possible avenue of reclamation and enforcement."

Wagner said that TVA expected operators to buy coal from to fully reclaim their land, and to include cost of restoration in their selling price.

He went on to say that strip mining is the only economical method of recovering large parts of our mineral resources.

"It reaches and makes available coal which could not be readily extracted by deep-mining methods," he said.

"It is safer than deep mining and does not claim the toll in human lives that underground mining does. To the extent that strip mining lowers the cost of coal to the consumer, it serves the public interest."

The symposium was to move from Lexington's Imperial House across Kentucky today and tomorrow, where those in attendance will look at examples of successfully reclaimed land that has been strip mined.

Special Session For School - Financing Has Been Postponed

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has postponed indefinitely the special session of the General Assembly he was to have called for June 21. The governor took the action because of the recent Court of Appeals decision requiring a 100 per cent assessment of property for taxation.

Breathitt had intended to call the special session to consider methods of raising more tax funds for schools.

In postponing his special-session call, Breathitt said "it is important to point out that this decision of the court does not in itself mean a drastic increase in local taxes. My purpose will be to make certain that this does not occur — that there will not be an unfair, unjust disposition of local taxes on the people."

Breathitt also said "we need especially to weigh the effects of the court decision on two groups of our citizens — the small farm owner and the small homeowner who may be retired or who has a fixed income."

Buckhorn Public Library Opens

Just a week and a half ago, the Buckhorn Public Library opened its doors for the first time. Already, forty people hold library cards.

The library, which is open on Monday and Wednesday nights from 5:30-7:00, is located up the stairs in the old school building in Buckhorn. There are all types of books for all types of people. There are books for all ages.

Starting next Wednesday night, there will be a story hour for all children from the ages of 5-10. This weekly story hour will feature exciting stories and plays. It will take place on the lawn by the library.

All residents of the Buckhorn area are invited to come to the library, as it is free to all and exists to provide books for learning and enjoyment.
